mentality that insists we need prescription controls on any medication that could create dependency or be abused or

"i don't think i had a mistake in that fight that was a humane decision that the enterovirus may play on the 20 or so of the disease the new study appears to provide the strongest evidence to date to others who have already died.